Legal Experts in Social Security benefits feature educational seminars

For Immediate Release

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 30, 2012 – Maneuvering through the Social Security disabilities claim system isn't easy. And if you're contesting a claim denial? Odds are, you're going to need guidance.

Detroit Legal Services (DLS) offers seminars to groups in order to better educate the community in this challenging process. The firm practices holistic law, and considers every aspect of clients' lives. Seminar topics mirror this philosophy and cover a variety of issues.

“Our seminars provide an excellent opportunity for us to connect with people and assess the specific challenges they're facing with Social Security claims,” said DLS President Joshua L. Moore. “We offer an abundance of useful information and leave people with a much more clear vision of their rights.”

DLS has become a sought-after nationwide expert in Social Security claims. Through its specialized programs, DLS has successfully used its expertise and resources to provide personalized legal services for hundreds of clients who have found themselves struggling within the system.

The firm, headquartered in Detroit, proudly gives 10 percent of its earnings back to the community via donations to nonprofit organizations. Additionally, DLS provides lunch to nonprofit groups who book seminars.

For a sample of just some of the information DLS covers during its seminars, take a look at the video clip here. Complete this form for questions about booking a seminar.
